Fiore is the Italian word for flower. The Fiore rug is a beautiful example of how textile design can accurately portray nature. Endemic to the coast of Chile, the Vira-Vira (or Gnaphalium), is a species of flora with its distinctive clusters of small ball-shaped flowers. Commonly referred to as “herb of life” due to its therapeutic properties, this flower has a very delicate color palette and subtle shades. Woven with the finest blend of silk, wool and linen, Fiore is the ultimate expression of texture, materiality and craftsmanship.
